PREAMBLE

You are reading the Tender Documentation on the “Subscription for the Access to British Medical Journals, Cambridge University Press Journals, IOPscience, Lippincott Williams and Wilkins, Royal Society of Chemistry, Taylor & Francis Online Journals and the UpToDate online databases (2018)” with the Library and Information Centre of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences as Contracting Authority. The aim of this Documentation is to contribute to the submission of an adequate Tender, fulfilling the requirements of the Invitation to Tender and the Documentation.

Contracting Authority directs Tenderer’s attention to Articles 73-74 of Act CXLIII of 2015 on public procurement (hereinafter PPA), which invalidate those Tenders who fail to comply in any way with the law or conditions stipulated in the Invitation to Tender or the Documentation.

Budapest, 13 December, 2017

Yours Sincerely,

PUBLIC CONSULTING Kft. represented by
Diána Kretter dr.
Managing Director

INVITATION TO TENDER

Contracting Authority has also sent the Invitation to Tender directly to the Tenderer. Contracting Authority directs Tenderer's attention to the fact that it is necessary to submit a valid Tender. All related information can be acquired from this Documentation and the Invitation to Tender, PPA and also from the related Government Decrees. If any element of the Documentation is not in line with the Invitation to Tender, the Invitation to Tender is normative. In case of any discrepancies between the English and Hungarian version of the public procurement documents, the Hungarian version shall prevail, except for the Draft Contract where this issue is expressly stipulated in each case.

IV. COMPLETE AND ACCURATE COLLECTION OF THE DOCUMENTATION

The collector of the Documentation is responsible for checking the completeness of the Documentation when receiving it. It is beyond Contracting Authority's power to accept any objections with regard to the deficient receipt of such Documentation. Contracting Authority draws Tenderer's attention to that the

Documentation contains a GUIDE, a DRAFT CONTRACT, SAMPLE STATEMENTS and TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS drawn up by Contracting Authority.

V. AMENDMENT OF THE TENDER

- 1) Tenderers shall be bound by their Tender from the date of conclusion of the negotiations.
- 2) If Tenderers amend or withdraw their Tender after the date of conclusion of the negotiations (the expiry of the deadline for the submission of Final Tenders), it is deemed as an infringement of the binding offer period determined in PPA § 100 (4). The consequence of the infringement of the binding period is having the Tender declared invalid.

VI. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

- 1) Economic Operator may ask for supplementary information from Contracting Authority at the contact assigned in the Invitation to Tender in writing (handed personally or by post, fax or electronic means as specified in PPA § 41 (4)). The additional information shall be given not later than three days before the expiry of the deadline for submission of Tenders.
- 2) If the request for additional information has been submitted later than the third day preceding the deadline for sending the answer as set out above, Contracting Authority is not obliged to provide additional information.
- 3) The Economic Operators' propounded questions and Contracting Authority's additional information become part of the Documentation.

VII. DOCUMENTS THAT CONSTITUTE THE TENDER

- 1) With respect to PPA § 57 (1) b) Contracting Authority directs attention to the documents that are to be submitted in the Tender – as far as possible please enclose them in this order:

Serial number	Denomination
1.	A Reading Sheet shall be enclosed which shall contain all the data under PPA § 68 (4) (name, address (registered office, home address), and those main quantifiable data per each part which shall be evaluated according to the assessment criteria). The Tender shall contain the following details of the Tenderer: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ➤ Bank account number, ➤ Name of the representative, ➤ Name of the contact person, ➤ Phone number of the contact person, ➤ Email address of the contact person. ➤ Tenderer's tax number Appendix 1

TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS

Technical Specifications

Scientific Knowledge Services

Scientific Knowledge Services (SKS) having its registered office in Switzerland is an agent that holds exclusive licence granted by major scientific publishers to provide access to electronic databases and journal packages to the member institutions of the Hungarian Electronic Information Service National Programme under favourable conditions and at a consortium discount. SKS fulfils an intermediary role between the publishers offering databases tailored to the requirements of specific target groups or specialized in particular areas of academic disciplines and EIS. Due to the increasing number of publishers providing scientific databases, EIS as the head of the national consortium would not be capable of conducting negotiations in a time and cost effective manner. Therefore, intermediary companies are involved for the procurement processes of several databases based on a needs assessment survey of the EIS member institutions. Consequently, the costs of public procurement can be significantly reduced as several contracts may be concluded within a single procedure.

Scientific Knowledge Services will provide access to 7 different databases by the authorization of the licence holder publishers to the community of Hungarian researchers in 2018:

- British Medical Journal
- Cambridge University Press
- IOP Science
- Lippincott Williams & Wilkins
- Royal Society of Chemistry
- Taylor & Francis
- UpToDate

British Medical Journals

The database provides access to the British Medical Journal published by the British Medical Association, and to further 28 full text medical journals. The BMJ is one of the most prominent journals of medical sciences, and moreover it functions as an online platform providing up-to-date communication for the professional medical community. Apart from current journal articles, it also comprises videos, blogs and an archive collection of articles which may be searched in retrospect until 1840. The list of journals solely accessible via this database is set out in the Appendix.

Cambridge University Press Journals

Cambridge University Press (CUP) Journals is an online database for the university and research community compiled by one of the most renowned universities of the world. It practically covers every scientific discipline: humanities, social, natural sciences, and applied sciences. History and linguistics, as well as political sciences and international relations play a predominant role within humanities and social sciences, environment and environmental studies, and agriculture within the applied sciences, neurology and medical biology within the realm of medical sciences. CUP publications have a leading role within their discipline, such publications include the most recent findings. Therefore, such contents are indispensable for progressive research and the Hungarian academic community.

CUP currently publishes 350 such peer-reviewed journals, most of which may not be accessed through any other database. As well as those journals owned by the Press itself, they publish the periodicals of learned and professional societies. Over 120 of their journals are owned by scholarly societies and are published by the Press on their behalf. 1 million full text studies may be accessed through this collection. Journals are organized by disciplines, thus particular institutions may subscribe only to the relevant packages (social sciences, humanities, engineering, economics, medical sciences, etc.). Over two-thirds of the journals are indexed by one of the most important international tools in scientific performance-indexing, namely Science Citation Index and Social Science Citation Index.

Every journal may exclusively accessed via Cambridge Core Online, the publisher's own platform.

The articles may be read in PDF or HTML format and downloaded to phones, tablets or e-readers in ePub format. The articles may be directly sent to a user's Dropbox or Google Drive address. The platform provides a number of search and browsing facilities, thus a user may browse by the subject or title of a journal, or may use the Quick Search, Citation Search, or Advanced Search functions. Cambridge Core also has a version for mobiles. This was devised for smart phones and other small devices enabling quicker and more convenient browsing. All the journals may be accessed on the Cambridge Core platform. Thus the entire content of Cambridge University Press may be searched simultaneously through a single search box. The most current issues of particular journals of CUP may only be accessed via this platform. The list of journals solely accessible via this database is set out in the Appendix.

Lippincott Williams and Wilkins

Lippincott Williams and Wilkins (LWW) is the database in medical sciences of Wolters Kluwer Publishing which provides textbooks, manuals and over 275 scientific journals in the field of medical, technical and healthcare sciences. Reliable and updated information of this database supports health professionals in their healing work by providing the latest and most efficient procedures and treatment potentials. In collaboration with leading institutions of the world, LWW publishes manuals about medicine and care, and also supplies journals and newsletters. The unique content covers all areas related to health and medical studies. The latest issues of journals are available online exclusively in this database.

Users can easily browse and search among journals via the interface. Search in full text articles can be refined in different ways. Items can be printed or saved in PDF format. It is possible to search in full text articles or in abstracts, and also by title. Refined search is possible by selecting title, authors, DOI, keyword, publication type etc. Search results and search terms can be saved and are retrievable.

The Library and Information Centre of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences intends to subscribe to more than 200 journal titles and more than 1000 e-books within this procurement. Perpetual access for all the e-books is guaranteed. Journals are continuously updated and available via direct link in Ovid Link Solver system.
